BLIND BOX

The blind box is a single-piece tool designed to deliver "blows" much like a hammer, to downhole debris.

* It is used to beat down an obstruction encountered in the tubing string.
* It is also used to cut wireline on a rope socket during fishing operations.
* The bottom face is flat and hardened to reduce wear and damage under repeated jarring.
* Its solid, full-bore body also allows the tool to be used to help locate the fluid level inside a wellbore.
* Sizes are generally ordered in millimeter O.D. increments within the ranges shown.
